PAMELA JO HATLEY

Performance Musician and Vocalist

EDUCATION

Pamela Jo's music education began in elementary school at Bagley Junior High in Dora, Alabama, where she studied ukulele and guitar under locally acclaimed musician and educator, Irvin Payne. Pamela continued studying guitar throughout elementary, middle, and high school. She performed in school, church, and community events. Later Pamela studied music theory and classical guitar under Marvin McCombs at Walker College and performed with the Walker College Jazz Ensemble.

Pamela's formal and informal music education has been a lifelong endeavor, as music was her "first love." She has taught and participated in many music workshops and classes at acoustic music camps and folk festivals in Florida.
