

Crossin' The Mississippi

Crossin the mississippi, leaving my baby all alone
Crossin, the mississippi, leaving my baby all alone
Crossing the Mississippi River
Leaving the land I called my home

My baby, he ain't one nothing wrong, for me to treat him this way My baby, he ain't done nothing wrong, for me to leave him in such pain

Well I swear baby please believe me
We're going to be together again someday

Cause every mile, I've been thinking, wishing you were near Every mile I've been thinking, wishing you were near Every mile I drive, I'm dying inside
Because I'm going to lose you I fear

My poor heart had been aching, thinking about the way things were before

My poor heart has been aching thinking about the way things
were before

Those times, they are gone memories they've now become
And now we're sitting here crying on the floor

Because I crossed that Mississippi River, leaving my baby all alone

I crossed the Mississippi River, leaving my baby all alone
Crossed the Mississippi River
Leaving the man I called my home
