

An Interesting Person

Peter Eldridge

Once in a while you meet an interesting person
A change of pace, a different face
The end of a winter season
And it seems so easy
Words all pouring out just as they are

Your heart you feel it lift
Its like a gift from heaven
No thoughts to weigh, no games to play
A sudden taste of freedom
And in this teaser of time
You're all you've ever wanted to be

Once in a while you meet an interesting person
A friend for life and someone you won't ever see again
And for what seemed the first time
There was time for what's on your mind
In your mind
In your mind
