

PATRICK WHITEHEAD TRUMPET STUDIO

Pomp and Circumstance

The only permanence is impermanence. Such is the experience of life and certainly the life of a teacher. This spring five of my senior trumpet students will be graduating high school. Over the last many years it has been my extreme honor and privilege to teach these wonderful young individuals! Some of these students have been with me since they were in elementary school. Now they are moving on to their next phase of life. Two will major in music, one will minor in music, one in nursing, and one in civil engineering. I wish each of them the very best of success during their years ahead. Each of these five graduating seniors will be deeply missed.

From my private trumpet studio at The Baltimore School for the Arts:

Adrian Mickens - Temple University (Music Major)

Isaac Chang - Columbia University (Language Arts Major with a concentration in Jazz Studies) - also accepted to Oberlin College

Simone Summers - California Arts Institute (Cal Arts) (Music Major) - also accepted to New York University, University of Toronto and the Berklee College of Music

These seniors are off to college and, although not majoring in music, they plan to keep up their trumpet chops playing in bands at their respective schools.

Jaden Sarney - from Atholton High School - will attend Purdue University (Majoring in Nursing) - also accepted to University of Tennessee Knoxville, University of Delaware, SUNY Binghamton, University of Rhode Island, and Towson State University

Rachel George - from Marriotts Ridge High School - will attend University of Maryland College Park (Majoring in Civil Engineering) - also accepted to Virginia Tech, University of Delaware, Temple University, and University of Maryland Baltimore County. Rachel received The Patrick S. Gilmore Band Award for her outstanding participation in high school band over the last 4 years!

Summer Lessons & COVID Update

I am offering private lessons to existing and new students over the summer months of June, July & August.

I have been fully vaccinated since March of this year. As our state is opening back up at a rather rapid pace and the rate of infection is down, I am now seriously considering giving parents/students the option of in person lessons for any student who has been fully vaccinated. The in person format would begin at some point in July. I will be consulting with medical professionals to assist me in making this decision. Whatever the outcome of my decision, I will definitely continue to offer lessons online for anyone wishing to continue in that format. It's important to me that all my students and their families feel one hundred percent comfortable with their mode of taking lessons.

After 12 years at Atholton and seeing his teaching up close, Pat Whitehead is one of the best private instructors I've known. Not only does he work on fundamentals, but he does so with emphasis on being musical not just technical. The students are better musicians and they bring a musicality and confidence to our ensembles that is so helpful in rehearsals. Not only do Pat's students make the local honor and All State ensembles, but he truly helps each student develop as a human being. I have yet to teach an Atholton student who didn't love lessons with Pat.
