

TAKE THE TIME

© 2019 by Heather Pierson

Time is short and there's so much to do
Hard though we try, the work is never done
Every breath is a chance to start anew
To share your love and joy with everyone

Take the time while you can
Take the time while you can
Take the time, take the time
To show your love

When your life seems to run away from you
And you feel an aching in your bones
Every soul shares this same path with you
So don't be afraid, you don't walk alone

Take the time while you can
Take the time while you can
Take the time, take the time
To show your love

Take the time to notice
Take the time to feel
Take the time to reach out for what is real

Take the time while you can
Take the time while you can
Take the time, take the time
To show your love